

PSC 462: Seminar in Political Theory

A survey of political ideas and ideologies. Students will build upon the argumentation skills from PSC 262 to undertake individual research within political theory. This provides an opportunity for students to bring together the ethical components of Newberry's liberal arts tradition as they apply it to the normative concepts which are at the foundation of politics and liberal democracy.

Credits: Credits 3

Notes:

Notes

PETH for PSC majors.

Prerequisites:

Prerequisite Courses

PSC 262

Semester Offered:

Semester Offered

Offered spring semesters, odd-numbered years.