

MIS 215: Spreadsheet Analysis

An in-depth review of spreadsheet design and development. Topics include developing and using formulas, functions, charts, database tables and macros. Students will develop multiple sheet projects and integrate spreadsheets with other business applications. Upon completion, students will be able to design spreadsheet templates for business applications. A notebook computer is required for this course.

Credits: Credits 3

Semester Offered:

Semester Offered

Course Offered each semester.

Recommended:

Recommended Prerequisites

Sophomore status