

ECM 310: Learning and Development, Birth to Five

Upon completion of this course, candidates will be able to reference theories and research when defining the four learning and developmental domains (cognitive, physical, language and social /emotional), as they pertain to the stages of development of children from birth to age five. The impact of cultural diversity, family, education, and socioeconomic status on early learning and development will be included.

Credits: Credits 3

Semester Offered:

Semester Offered

Offered fall semester.