

HUM 200: The Humanities: Empathy, Activism, Vocation

This course, which is designed for humanities majors and students considering a humanities major, has two aims. First, it introduces the history and significance of an education in the liberal arts. Second, it explores the benefits of majoring in the humanities, both in terms of specific career possibilities and in terms of a broader sense of life-long purpose.

Credits: Credits 3